By eating a balanced diet, your body obtains the fuel and nutrients it needs to function properly. Water flushes out toxins, transports nutrients to cells and performs other vital bodily processes. Bread, rice and potatoes are examples of rich carbohydrate foods. These foods give us plenty of energy. You should try and eat a lot of carbohydrates each day. Fruit and vegetables provide us with vitamins and minerals essential for keeping us healthy . Try to eat at least five portions of fruit and vegetables a day. Dairy products are great sources of protein and calcium and are found in milk, cheese and yogurt. Your muscles, organs, and immune system are made up mostly of protein. Foods High in fats and sugar provide the body with energy, warmth and insulation around vital organs. Too much fat in your diet can raise cholesterol, which increases the risk of heart disease. Fat is a source of essential fatty acids such as omega-3 because the body can't make them itself. To be healthy, nutritious food is needed to provide energy for the body. A variety of food is needed in the diet because different foods contain different substances that are needed to keep you healthy.
